dedication

To my clients for making me laugh every day.

To my family for putting up with my face in technology 24/7.

To my friends and co-workers who keep me strong and my spirits up.

I love you all.

an endless fascination

exists around the mystery that is hair removal, especially the Brazilian, and the idea that I spend more time in other lady's nether regions than most ob-gyns is a never-ending topic of conversation. Whether it is spin class, weddings or dinner parties, the "Lady Business" subject always seems to come up. I consider what I do to be as natural as ordering a cup of coffee. Though I suppose comparing a Starbucks barista's technique in slinging lattes to ripping hair from ones most intimate areas might seem a little far-fetched, I wouldn't do anything else. I love that I have a natural gift of making people laugh during an otherwise incredibly awkward situation and that I can turn it into a quick and fun experience for my client. An added bonus is the bond that develops and leads to some very interesting conversations. It is through those conversations (and much laughter) that the idea to write this book was born. I've come across many different names a lady uses when referring to, for lack of a better term, her lady business, and this book is a collaboration of names used by my clients to celebrate our private parts. When providing such a personal service one must have a sense of humour. I hope upon reading this book you'll get a glimpse into the laughter that comes from my sugar room and perhaps share a laugh yourself.

An oldie but goodie. It's a classic reference that never dies.

muffin

No longer just a term used to describe our love handles, though we may not look at a muffin the same way ever again.

End of sample.
